

Reznick Group's Tysons Office Partners with Junior Achievement to Help Local Youth

June, 2009

The professionals located in our Tysons Corner office remain active both personally and professionally when it comes to giving back to their community, and helping the local Junior Achievement is no exception. "JA in a Day" is a unique initiative that allows volunteers to teach all of the lessons of Junior Achievement's five elementary school programs in one day.

The Tysons Corner office hosted a Junior Achievement event at Sleepy Hollow Elementary School in McLean, Virginia. During the course of JA in a Day, students learned about various aspects of financial literacy, work readiness, and entrepreneurship. Some students in the second grade learned about their community and had a chance to see how money moves through a community, creating jobs and generating tax proceeds that pay for schools, parks and streets. The fifth graders studied their nation, and touched on things like creating a resume and starting their own businesses.

The Tysons Corner staff is always very proud to participate in these types of activities, especially those that touch young people so directly.
